Talk for Writing training for international and independent schools

As outlined on the main training page, Talk for Writing works best as a whole-school approach. To develop and embed any approach effectively, it is best if schools commit to a sequence of training. However, as working with UK state-schools is TfW's priority, we don't always have the capacity to take on full training projects with international and independent schools.

Instead, we offer training days for international and independent schools. The charges for online or in-person training and consultancy for independent and international school training for up to 50 people are:

£2000 for one day

£1750 per day for two days

£1500 per day for three or more days

We would recommend a group of 50 people as a maximum to get the most out of the training. Therefore, for groups of more than 50 people, additional charges apply.
